

Gwyneth slalomed through a hallway crammed with fairies then fluttered into a session called 'Tooth Value: What's Fair?'

"What is the value of a tooth?" began Mr. Buck Touffe, a Senior Enamelist from the Floss Institute. "If a tooth is in bad shape, then how will you know what to leave in exchange for it? These questions are very important in deciding what value - if any - each tooth deserves."

Mr. Touffe's questions made Gwyneth feel like she'd swallowed a gob of toothpaste. Teeth with no value? That's Plaque Man's dream come true!

Gwyneth tickled and twisted her antennae to stay alert and focus on Touffe's data. But the night spent cleaning up Plaque Man's dirty work had really clipped her wings. So while the rest of the audience chatted excitedly about Mr. Touffe's slides, Gwyneth snoozed.
